Request for New Language Code Element in ISO 639-3

This form is to be used in conjunction with a “Request for Change to ISO 639-3 Language Code” form

Date: 2019 Aug 31

Name of Primary Requester: Kirk Miller

E-mail address: kirkmiller at gmail dot com

PLEASE NOTE: This completed form will become part of the public record of this change request and the history of the ISO 639-3 code set. Use Shift-Enter to insert a new line in a form field (where allowed).

1. NAMES and IDENTIFICATION
   a) Preferred name of language for code element denotation: Changyi Xiang Chinese, New Xiang Chinese
   b) Autonym (self-name) for this language:
   c) Common alternate names and spellings of language, and any established abbreviations:
      Mandarin: 长益 (Chángyì)
   d) Reason for preferred name:
      The name in the Atlas is ‘Changyi’. ‘New Xiang’ is more common in the English lit, but is somewhat ambiguous in denotation now that sources no longer follow a simple New Xiang / Old Xiang dichotomy.
   e) Name and approximate population of ethnic group or community who use this language (complete individual language currently in use):
      Han Chinese. ca. 18 million.
   f) Preferred three letter identifier, if available:
      Your suggestion will be taken into account, but the Registration Authority will determine the identifier to be proposed. The identifiers is not intended to be an abbreviation for a name of the language, but to serve as a device to identify a given language uniquely. With thousands of languages, many sets of which have similar names, it is not possible to provide identifiers that resemble a language name in every case.

2. TEMPORAL DESCRIPTION and LOCATION
   a) Is this a ☒ Living language
      ☐ Nearly extinct/secondary use only (includes languages in revival)
      ☐ Recently extinct language
Historical language
Ancient language
Artificially constructed language
Macrolanguage

For individual languages, also complete:

b) Countries where used:
   China, Hunan province

c) Region within each country: towns, districts, states or provinces where used. Include GPS coordinates of the approximate center of the language, if possible:
   northeastern Hunan, centered on Changsha

3. MODALITY AND LINGUISTIC AFFILIATION
   a) This language is: □ Signed   ☑ Spoken   □ Attested only in writings
   b) Language family, if classified; origin, if artificially constructed:
      Sino-Tibetan, Sinitic
   c) Closest language linguistically. For a Macrolanguage, list the individual languages (adopted and/or proposed) to be included in its group. For signed language, note influence from other signed or spoken languages:
      New Xiang is intermediate between Old Xiang and SW Mandarin, at least partly due to Mandarin influence on Xiang, and there is debate over which dialects are Xiang and which are Mandarin. Some sources, such as Zhou & You (1986), classify all New Xiang as Mandarin rather than as Xiang (Kurpaska 2010, p. 55), though it is not mutually intelligible.

4. LANGUAGE DEVELOPMENT AND USE
   a) What written literature, inscriptions or recordings exist in this language? Are there newspapers, radio or television broadcasts, etc.?:

   b) Is this language officially recognized by any level of government? Is it used in any levels of formal education as a language of instruction (for other subjects)? Is it taught in schools?:

   c) Comment on factors of ethnolinguistic identity and informal domains of use:
SOURCES OF INFORMATION

You do not need to repeat sources previously identified in the form, “Request for Change to ISO 639-3 Language Code”

a) First-hand knowledge. Describe:

b) Knowledge through personal communication. Describe:

c) Knowledge from published sources. Include known dictionaries, grammars, etc. (please give complete bibliographical references):
