Associated Change request number: 2021-045 (completed by Registration Authority)
Tentative assignment of new identifier: luh (completed by Registration Authority)

PLEASE NOTE: This completed form will become part of the public record of this change request and the history of the ISO 639-3 code set. Use Shift-Enter to insert a new line in a form field (where allowed).

1. NAMES and IDENTIFICATION
   a) Preferred name of language for code element denotation:
      Luichew
   b) Autonym (self-name) for this language:
      雷州 (雷州话)
   c) Common alternate names and spellings of language, and any established abbreviations:
      Luichow, Leizhou, Loi Chau; 雷州話 (LOI), 海話 (HAI); 黎话, 海话
   d) Reason for preferred name:
      Luichew is the direct anglicization of the native name. Luichow comes via Cantonese, Leizhou via Mandarin, and Loi Chau (less common) via Vietnamese. For additional information, please refer to the paper accompanying this submission (Appendix A-3).

   Attachment: https://github.com/KIRINPUTRA/reclassifying-ISO-639-3-nan
   e) Name and approximate population of ethnic group or community who use this language (complete individual language currently in use):

Request for New Language Code Element in ISO 639-3, page 1
Luichew speakers number somewhere between 2.8 to over 4 million. For additional information on this and all following items, please refer to the paper accompanying this submission (§2.3).

f) Preferred three letter identifier, if available: luh

Your suggestion will be taken into account, but the Registration Authority will determine the identifier to be proposed. The identifiers is not intended to be an abbreviation for a name of the language, but to serve as a device to identify a given language uniquely. With thousands of languages, many sets of which have similar names, it is not possible to provide identifiers that resemble a language name in every case.

2. TEMPORAL DESCRIPTION and LOCATION

a) Is this a ☒ Living language
   [ ] Nearly extinct/secondary use only (includes languages in revival)
   [ ] Recently extinct language
   [ ] Historical language
   [ ] Ancient language
   [ ] Artificially constructed language
   [ ] Macrolanguage

(Select one. See explanations of these types at http://www.sil.org/iso639-2D3/types.asp)

For individual languages, also complete:

b) Countries where used:
   China.

c) Region within each country: towns, districts, states or provinces where used. Include GPS coordinates of the approximate center of the language, if possible:
   Luichew (Leizhou), located in the peninsular region at the southern tip of continental China; and nearby Tinpak (Dianbai), currently a district of Maoming, Canton (Guangdong Province).

d) For an ancient or historical language, give approximate time frame; for a recently extinct language, give the approximate date of the last known user’s death

3. MODALITY AND LINGUISTIC AFFILIATION

a) This language is: [ ] Signed ☒ Spoken [ ] Attested only in writings

b) Language family, if classified; origin, if artificially constructed: Ethnologue: Sino-Tibetan
c) Closest language linguistically. For a Macrolanguage, list the individual languages (adopted and/or proposed) to be included in its group. For signed language, note influence from other signed or spoken languages:
Hainanese.

4. LANGUAGE DEVELOPMENT AND USE

a) What written literature, inscriptions or recordings exist in this language? Are there newspapers, radio or television broadcasts, etc.:?
No / none.

b) Is this language officially recognized by any level of government? Is it used in any levels of formal education as a language of instruction (for other subjects)? Is it taught in schools?:
No. It was used as the de facto language of instruction until the 1990s.

c) Comment on factors of ethnolinguistic identity and informal domains of use:
Politically subordinate to Mandarin. Shift to Mandarin has begun in the administrative seats. Fluency in Cantonese is widespread, and there was shift to Cantonese in urban areas in the recent past. Use of Luichew is apparently vigorous in rural districts. There are two mutually intelligible main dialects, Loi and Hai (the Sea Speech). Please refer to the paper accompanying this submission (§2.3).

* Speakers of this language share in the Chinese macro-ethnolinguistic identity.
